Here, the twilight was the very essence of life, the coloured darkness was the embryo of all light, and the day.

D. H. Lawrence
The Rainbow

Hermann Hesse defines teaching as transplanting knowledge already gained into other minds and seeing it take on completely new appearances and radiations.

The Class of 1968 dedicates this yearbook to Mr. Joseph McDermott and Mr. Robert McDermott, both of whom have taught us.

ROBERT McDERMOTT

ORIENTATION '71

"Manhattanville is characterized by a deep concern for others, which demands as its prerequisite a basic self-respect, and fortifies the courage to become involved . . . But perhaps more urgently we are looking for a kind of COHESION, a vision of the world and our place in it — in this inquiry we turn not only to ourselves, but to each other."

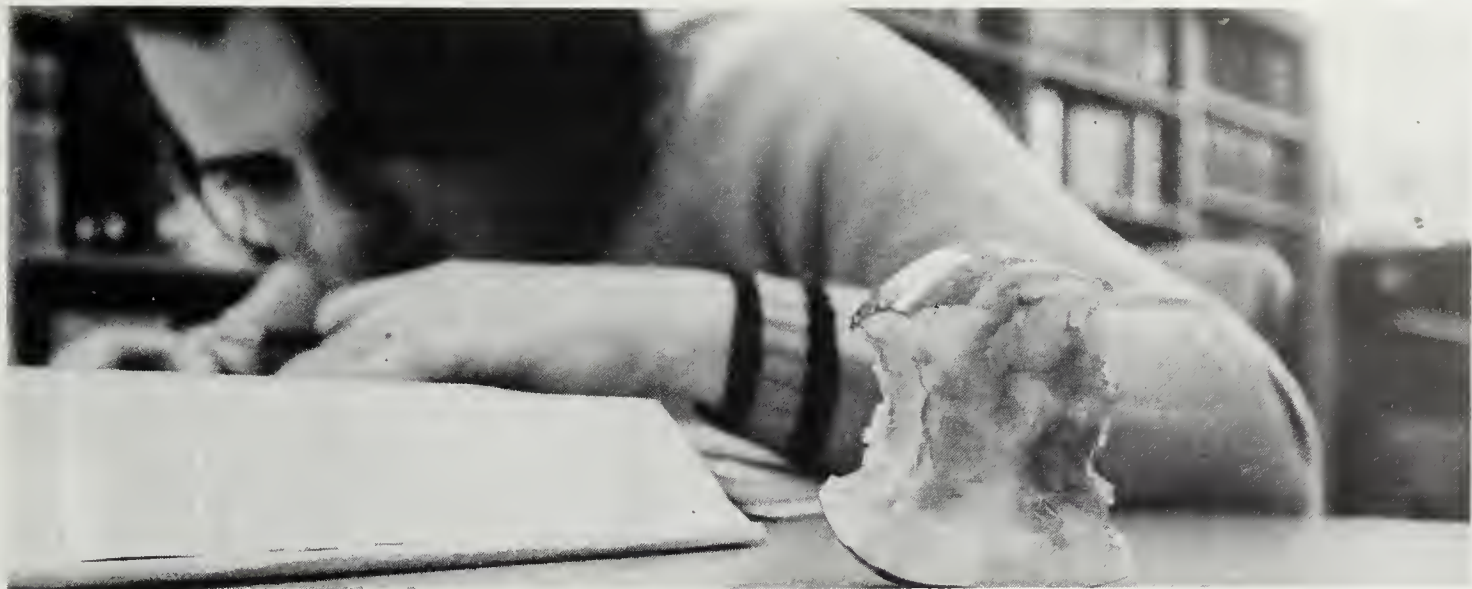

Jane Tuohy, Orientation Chairman
Address to Freshmen
September 11, 1967

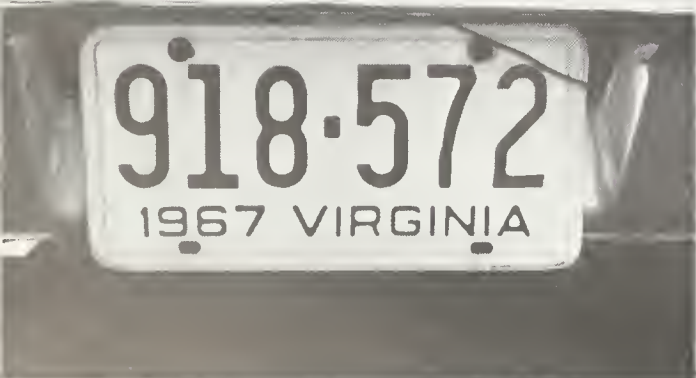

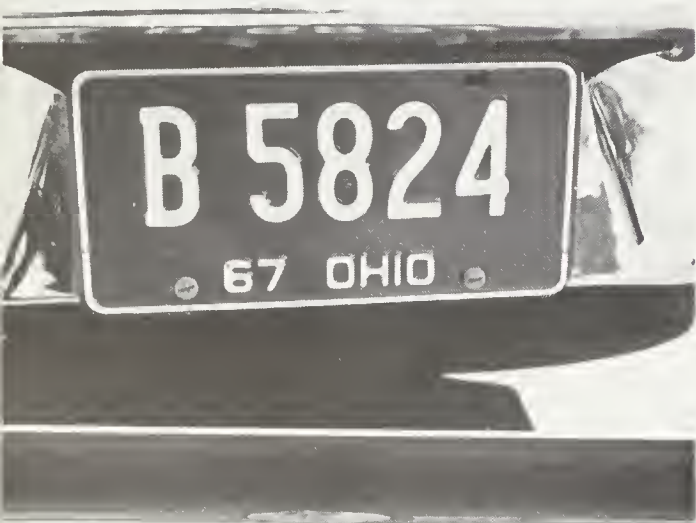

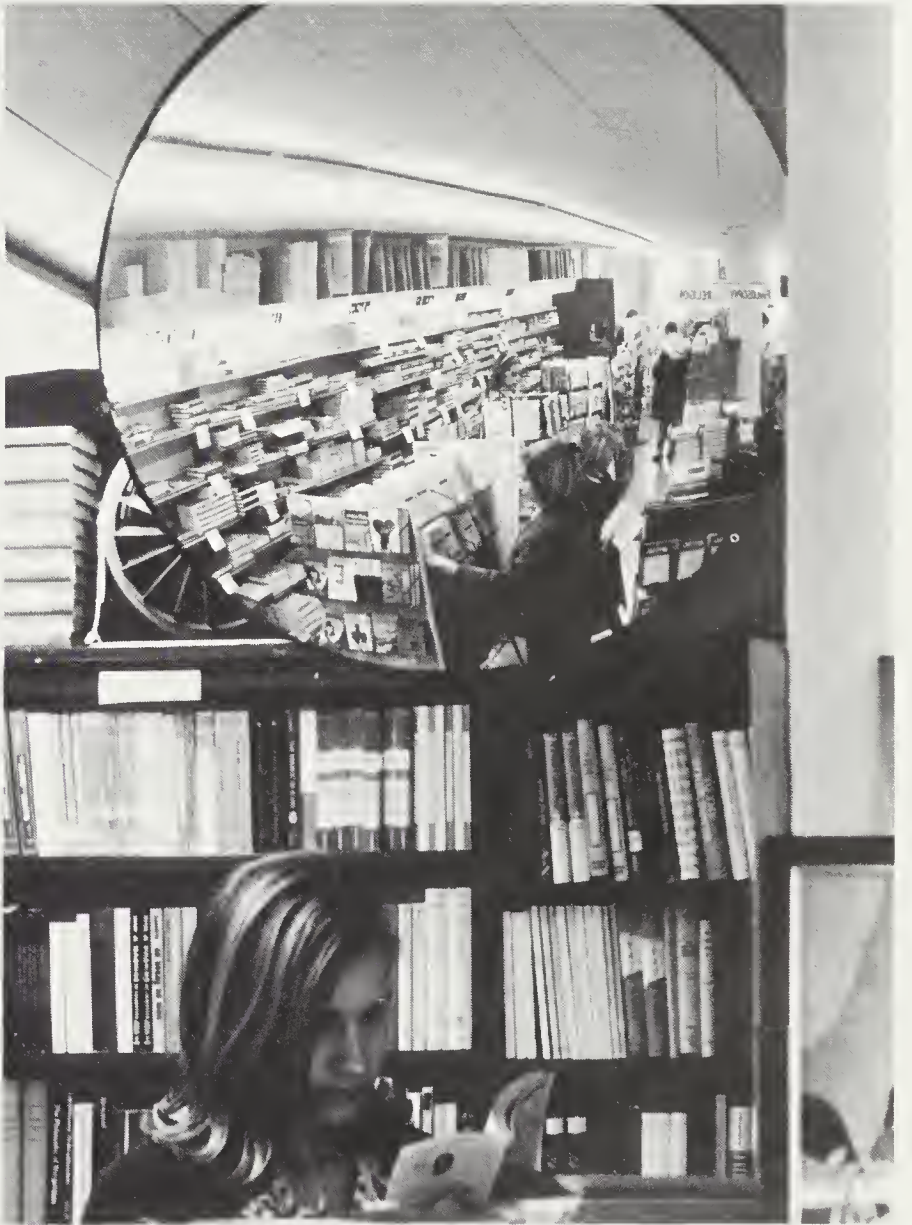

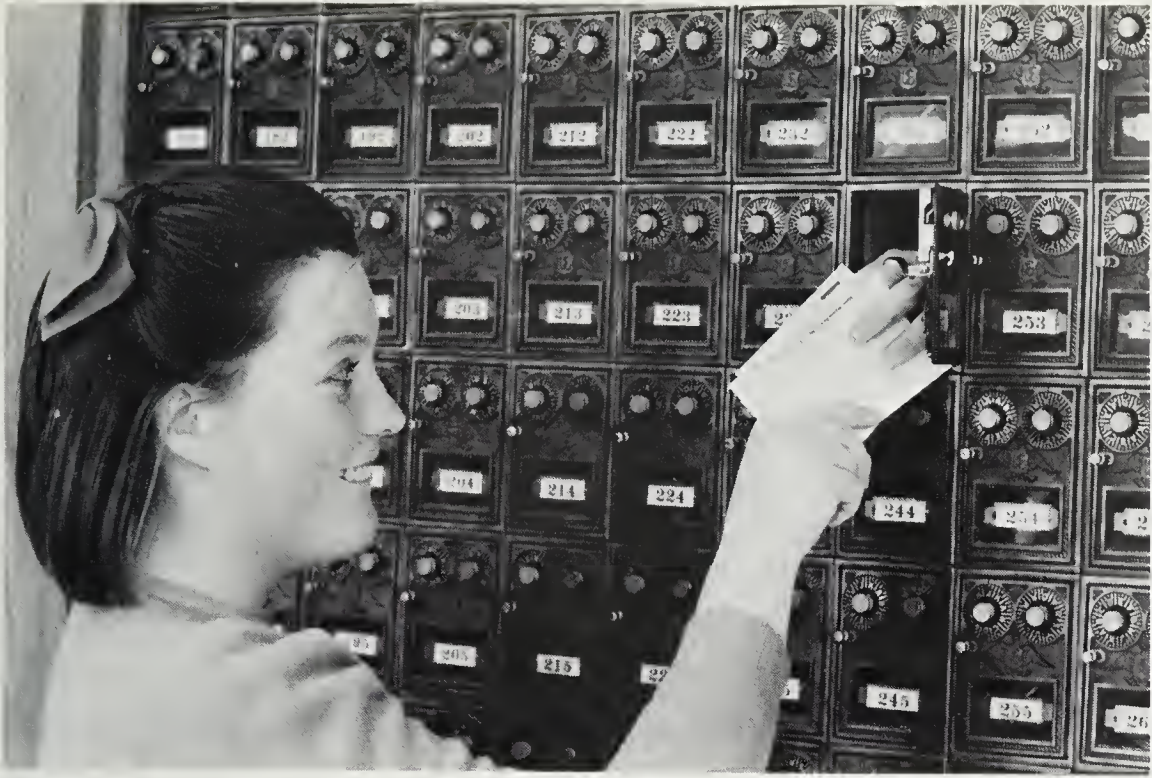

"Hello, lamp post, what ya knowin'?" (Simon and Garfunkle, Feelin' Groovy) "When you're alone and life is making you lonely, you can always go downtown." (Petula Clark, Downtown) "Lovers, lovers in the city, such a happy city it seems." (Petula Clark, Strangers and Lovers) "You ever pass by the lagoon in Central Park? . . . Well, you know the ducks that swim around in it? . . . Do you happen to know where they go in the winter time, by any chance?" (J. D. Salinger, Catcher in the Rye) "Hot town, summer in the city, back of my neck gettin' dirty and gritty." (Lovin' Spoonful, Summer in the City) "They say there's music in the air on Broadway." (The Drifters, On Broadway) "We tripped the light fantastic on the sidewalks of New York . . . East Side, West Side, all around the town."

And the people bowed and prayed
To the neon god they'd made;
And the sign flashed out its warning
In the words that it was forming;
And the sign said the words of the prophets
Are written on the subway walls,
The tenement halls —
Whispering the sounds of silence.

Appalachia over Easter, the Blaine Amendment, "What is Catholic Education?", packages to Vietnam, "A Closer Look at Welfare" . . . headlined the activity of the National Federation of Catholic College Students.

A new NF to "stand or fall on its own merits" was chairman Ellen Kelly's observation of the voluntary group this year. October's forum investigated Catholic education, while November was devoted to studying and debating the Blaine Amendment to the New York State Constitution. Welfare, its philosophy and present administration, was NF's spring forum topic. Moderator Sister Clark brought A Man For All Seasons to campus in January to raise funds for Appalachia. Students also collected clothes, medicines, and volunteers for the annual regional Easter project in Appalachia.

In 1968, International Human Rights Year, the International Relations Club explored the effectiveness of different political approaches in attacking world problems. Highlights included participation in a Human Rights Conference in Washington, D.C.; a discussion of the World Bank by Clark Kinney; and participation with honorable mention in the National Model United Nations as representatives of Colombia. George Brand's assessment of a divided Germany, Arnold Brackman's analysis of regional implications of the Vietnam war, and an African Affairs Conference at Princeton, N. J., illuminated the facts of power politics. A dinner and informal evening with United Nations guides added a personal dimension to international relations.

"Students for a Democratic Society exists at Manhattanville only in so far as there are people who are interested. SDS ranges from so-called activists to devoted non-members who are willing to support SDS-sponsored events because they believe in the organization's underlying principles. Both of these ideals may be summed up in the SDS motto, 'Let the People Decide.' But first people must know. On the college campus, this process involves a willingness to recognize the relevance of world-sized issues as well as the individual worlds of those around us. Through meetings, discussions, and lectures, SDS keeps the channels open to serve as a gadfly and to avoid the creation of an atmosphere of alienation. SDS depends on people and immediate pertinent issues to fulfill its role. Such people come and go, and once gone their return is very slow. But problems and pressures are perennial. SDS exists at Manhattanville only in so far as there are people who are interested in SDS." — Louise Barrett, chairman

Light and darkness in the hands of a painter, sculptor or architect can be symbols of his perception of life, or the concrete working of his art. The great artist can create light and darkness — ideal and emotion — contributing to the quality of life and the course of civilization.

Intellectual life attempts to throw light on the darkness of "reality" by creating patterns, "meaning." Our danger is to insulate ourselves in one little system. The shock of meeting other patterns that challenge our whole world view — the ways of thinking of Eastern peoples — alone can keep us alive and growing.

A Classic is something that is generally considered worthy of survival. In order to survive meaningfully a Classic must be understood. Light must clearly reveal it; its quality, its truth, its value, its significance, its importance; not only for that time it first saw the light, but especially for now, today. The past is always with us. The Greek and Roman past is still a large part of us, our religion, our language, our literature, our philosophy, our art. In order to understand ourselves, we must understand our beginnings. The Classics help to light our way. Lux fiat. That is what they are attempting to do at Manhattanville.

You will forgive us if sometimes we have stood between you and the book, casting only dark shadows toward you. Our eyes are not always of the best; and there are times, too, when it is comforting to turn one's back to the fire. Yet there are some labors for which "darkness is light enough." And it may be that, when we step aside, you will find yourselves, after all, looking in the right direction.

Your theme "Light and Darkness" reminds me of the conclusion of a story by Camus. A painter, Jonas, is jubilant on completing his masterpiece. On a large white canvas in small black letters one can read with difficulty the word "solitaire" or "solidaire." Would you discuss this with me?

Perhaps for some students the following will cast light on the darkness of history:

"History is an encounter with others and for anyone whose soul is neither narrow nor base it often reveals a greatness that confounds us. . . . History begins only where the historian forgets himself enough to come out of himself and go forward, open-minded, toward the discovery and the encounter with the other."

When darkness was, there was no man.
Then came the light, the man, the word.
The word, the language opened to man his ways to progress.
The language, the light opens all ways to knowledge.

What does it mean to be called "out of darkness" into the Kingdom of Love? To reconcile opposing values and retain their strengths within a synthesis. Educate man, then, to deal with differences. Develop a critical intelligence and intelligent love. There is darkness wherever intelligence or love goes to work without the other!

Science, like institutions, progresses by change. But there are some things in science that do not change — the law of entropy. There are also institutional things that do not change. These immutables are principles which form tradition. Progress and tradition should play complementary roles in the life of a college.

Robert B. Morrissey

GEORGE MODZELEWSKI

ROBERT B. MORRISSEY

In the short pleasant span of my existence at Manhattanville it has often seemed that most of my associates (colleagues and students) placed an emphasis on two of the three R's (once suggested as descriptive of the Democratic Party). Whether or not this casts light or darkness, the combinations have proved congenial and I don't think it is likely to change.

On these grounds is sentence pronounced:
that though the light has come into the world
men have shown they prefer darkness to the light because their deeds are evil.
And indeed, everybody who does wrong
hates the light and avoids it,
for fear his actions should be exposed;
but the man who lives by the truth
comes out into the light,
so that it may be plainly seen that what he does is done in God.

The leitmotif of man's hope rings through all of Russian literature. May this hope be the light of truth made real and living — glowing with an understanding of those who walk in darkness.

In the darkness of his prison cell Cervantes produced a masterpiece destined to bring joy, hope and encouragement to countless millions in the pursuit of their ideal. In the confused darkness of the world today, should not Manhattanville's role be that of the Man from LaMancha?

me when I say:*

tomorrow is practically here.

*I saw Eternity the other night
Like a great ring of pure and endless light,
All calm, as it was bright,
And round beneath it, Time in hours, days, years,
Driv'n by the spheres
Like a vast shadow moved . . .*
